

CIBSE Membership Fact Sheet

Licentiate member (LCIBSE) via CIBSE/ASHRAE Agreement – L25

The scope of building services engineering applications is recognised to be heating, lighting, refrigeration, acoustics, air-conditioning, ventilation, water, plumbing, power systems, vertical transport, control systems, fire and security, alarm systems, facade engineering, public health, integrated systems and intelligent buildings, including environmental and sustainability aspects. It may include roles in facilities management, project management, construction management, research, development and education.

Join CIBSE and benefit from

- Access to CIBSE's renowned Best Practice Advice. CIBSE is the recognised standard setter and authority on Building Services Engineering and energy efficient buildings.
- Member only access to the new online CIBSE Knowledge Portal with free downloads of all CIBSE publications
- Networking opportunities and knowledge sharing with other members and employers all over the world
- A free monthly copy of the authoritative CIBSE Journal
- Fortnightly Electronic Newsletter to keep you up to date with what's going on at CIBSE and throughout the built environment
- A free Electronic Technical Bulletin packed with the latest industry news and technical updates
- Free membership of special interest groups
- Support for Continued Professional Development (CPD) through our training, events and online learning modules

To become a Licentiate member of CIBSE via the CIBSE/ASHRAE Agreement you will

- be a current Member of ASHRAE (MASHRAE)
- submit an application inclusive of a:
  - Competence statement
    - A statement of approximately 1500 words, giving details of your work experience in chronological order, indicating your role and scope of responsibility, within the field of building services engineering. Please refer to Competence Criteria fact sheet for Licentiate membership (L21) for the range of competencies you will be expected to have covered.
  - Copy of with your ASHRAE certificate.

Please complete the CIBSE/ASHRAE Licentiate membership application form and submit with the current year's membership subscription.