A summary of the key points and definitions covered in or impacted by the Building Safety Act and the new Building Safety Regulator.

Building Safety Act

The Act is a major revision and reform to the Building Act 1984. The Act creates a Building Safety Regulator, responsible for the regulation of ALL buildings, with new statutory roles for designers and contractors on all projects and regulation of building control officers.

Higher Risk Buildings

- At least 18 metres in height or has at least 7 storeys
- Contains at least 2 residential units, as well as hospitals and care homes above the height threshold in design and construction
- Residential Higher Risk Buildings will be subject to safety case processes and regular safety case reports, needing to be reapproved for occupation regularly

Accountable Person

- All occupied higher risk residential buildings will be required to have an Accountable Person, who will be legally responsible for ensuring that the fire and structural safety of their building(s) are being properly managed.
- The Accountable Person must identify themselves to the Building Safety Regulator before a higher-risk residential building is occupied.

Duty Holders

The Building Safety Act introduces new regulations that place duties on those who procure, plan, manage and undertake building work of any kind. Duty holders will need to work together to plan, manage and monitor the design work and the building work, ensure they cooperate and communicate with each other, coordinate work and have systems in place to ensure that all building and design work complies with all relevant building regulations.

Client

The person for whom the work is being done (often the developer or building owner). They will have new statutory duties to take all reasonable steps to assure themselves that those they appoint to work on a project are competent to do that work.

Principal Contractor

A contractor appointed to be in control of the whole project during the construction phase.

Principal Designer

Appointed to be in control of ALL design work.
